PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE FIFTH CIRCUIT

Petitioners-Plaintiffs, who were Defendants in a Cross-Complaint, to-wit United Broadcasting Company, Inc., a Corporation, and U. B. C. Sales, Inc., a Corporation, and their Officers, and Richard Eaton pray that a Writ of Certiorari issue to review the judgment of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, said Court's opinion and judgment being dated January 20, 1975, and the Petition for Rehearing filed by Petitioners having been denied by the said Court of Appeals on February 10, 1975.

OPINION BELOW

The opinion of the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit is reported at F.2d (not yet reported) and is copied in Appendix A, infra, pp. 1a-10a.

JURISDICTION

The judgment of the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit was made and entered on January 20, 1975, and your Petitioners' Petition for Rehearing in that Court was denied by said Court on February 10, 1975, and a copy of the judgment of said Court is appended to this Petition in Appendix A, infra, pp. 1a-10a, and the Order denying said Petition for Rehearing is appended to this Petition in Appendix B, infra, p. 10a-11a. The jurisdiction of this Court is invoked under 28 U.S.C. 1254(1), and Rule 19.1(b), Revised Rules of the Supreme Court of the United States.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

The questions here presented are:

(1) Respondent testified that in connection with certain aspects of the case, he had bribed a District Judge, and bugged the Judge's office, and had bribed both the District Attorney and an attorney for an opposing party, all in the Republic of Mexico. The Trial Judge prevented counsel for Petitioner from arguing to the jury that these facts indicated a lack of credibility on the part of the Respondent, and the Court stated to the jury both that bribing a public official is not a crime in Mexico, and that "that's the way they do business down there", and further stated, erroneously, that one of Petitioner's witnesses had testified "that's the way they do business in Mexico", although there is no evidence in the record to sustain such statements by the Court. The Court of Appeals approved these statements by the Trial Court, stating the Trial Court's observations were nothing more than an attempt to inform the jury they should consider all the circumstances in assessing the impact of an illegal act on Armes' credibility, and that there was no error in the Trial Court's comments.

In this connection the following questions are presented:

(a) The error of the Trial Court in preventing Petitioners' counsel from arguing said facts in connection with the issue of Respondent's credibility.

(b) The error of the Trial Court in stating, wholly outside the record, that bribing a public official is not a crime in Mexico, and that that's the way they do business down there, which was actually an instruction to the jury that Respondent was not guilty of an illegal act in bribing said public officials, and the Trial Court thereby destroyed Petitioner's position that Respondent's acts of bribing bore strongly on the question of his credibility.

(c) The Court of Appeals' statement that the Trial Court's observations were nothing more than an attempt to inform the jury they should consider all circumstances in assessing the impact of an illegal act on Armes' credibility is so at variance with the undisputed facts in the record as to raise the question that the Court of Appeals' opinion should be reversed in keeping with the principle that our jurisprudence requires that legal decisions and judgments be based on the facts in the record, and not otherwise.

(d) And, most importantly, the statements of the Trial Court above referred to, and the opinion of the Court of Appeals approving them, constitute a direct slap at a sister Republic, and the standards used by it in carrying on public business, which this Court should not permit to stand.

(2) The question whether a written contract between the parties which contained recitations showing it covered the subject matter of this action is to control, or whether a judgment can stand which is based upon alleged prior oral agreements which contradict and vary the terms of the written agreement, in violation of the parol evidence rules.

(3) The question whether a judgment for Respondent be permitted to stand, based on a percentage of the proceeds of a sale of XEWG, when Respondent admits XEWG has not been sold.

THE LAW INVOLVED

The law involved under the questions relating to the confessed bribery by Respondent of public officials in the Republic of Mexico is (1) that bribery is an illegal act. It is made illegal by statute under the State laws of Texas, Secs. 158, 160, 167, 177, Penal Code of Texas, and is also made a crime in the laws of the United States, 18 U.S.C.A. Sec. 201. It is a felony. As there was neither pleading nor proof of the laws of Mexico, they are presumed to be the same as the law of the forum. Foreign laws must be pled and proved, Rowan vs. C.I.R., 120 F.2d 515 (5th Cir. 1941). In the absence of such pleading and proof, the foreign law is presumed to be the same as the domestic, Medina vs. Hartman, 260 F.2d 569 at 570 (9th Cir.); Molina vs. Sovereign Camp W.O.W., 6 F.2d 385 at 397, 398. Since Respondent testified to his bribing the said public officials, and since this is a crime, which is a felony, the remaining legal point relates to the error of the Trial Court preventing Petitioners' counsel from arguing to the jury that these facts bore upon Respondent's credibility as a witness, and to the error of the Trial Court in instructing the jury that such acts were not illegal in Mexico, that this is the way they do business in Mexico, and that Petitioners' witness Gonzalez Vargas had so testified, although Gonzalez Vargas had not so testified.

There is also involved the law relating to the parol evidence rule, since there was a written agreement between the parties which purported to cover the matters involved in this case, but the Trial Court permitted Respondent to testify to alleged oral agreements, on the basis of which a verdict was rendered in favor of Respondent, all contrary to the decisions of the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit in Harville Rose Service vs. Kellogg Company, 448 F.2d 1346 (5th Cir.), a case which arose in Texas, and in Mathews vs. Drew Chemical Corp., 475 F.2d 146 (5th Cir.), a case which arose in Florida.

There is also the related question that Respondent's cause of action being based upon a percentage of the proceeds of a sale of Station XEWG, and it being undisputed said station has not been sold, the judgment in favor of Respondent is not supported by the facts, and is erroneous.

STATEMENT

Respondent testified to participating in giving a $3,000.00 bribe to a Judge of a Court, and bugging the Judge's office, (Doc. 92) A. pp. 150-151; a $3,500.00 bribe to the District Attorney (Doc. 92) A. p. 122; and a $1,- 000.00 bribe to the attorney for an opposing party. (Doc. 92) Tr. p. 191, all in connection with the subject matter of this case, these acts being done in Mexico. On cross-examination he further testified about giving these bribes, that he participated in giving $2,000.00 to the District Attorney, (Doc. 92) A. p. 149, and described it as a bribe, (Doc. 92) A. p. 149 and that he participated in giving $3,000.00 to a Judge (Doc. 92) A. p. 150.

During the argument of counsel for Petitioners to the jury, on the question of Respondent's credibility, the giving of these bribes by Respondent was referred to, coupled with the statement that a bribe is illegal and that it is morally dishonest — either in El Paso, or in Mexico — at which time the Court interrupted, and said, "Mr. Hulse, there is no testimony that this action is illegal. To the contrary, your witness, Mr. Gonzalez Vargas, said that's the way they do business in Mexico." (Doc. 92) A. p. 186. The Court continued with the statement, "If I'm wrong, the jury of course will determine whether or not, but I understand Mr. Gonzalez Vargas says that's the way they do business, and he participated. . . ." (Doc. 92) A. p. 186. And the Court further said, ". . . but I mention that fact because there is nothing in the record so far as what was done being illegal in Mexico. Call it what you will, but my recollection was that Vargas said that's the way they do business, but the jury will decide that, and you'll remember what his testimony was."

Counsel stated he was arguing this as going to the credibility of the Respondent as a witness. (Doc. 92) A. p. 188.

In the Court's charge to the jury, at the conclusion of the case, the Court told the jury it was up to them to determine the credibility of the witnesses. (Doc. 92) A. p. 192. and then referred to the conduct of Mr Armes in Mexico. (Doc. 92) A. p. 192. and said that no testimony was offered as to the laws of Mexico. but the way the Court remembered it Mr. Gonzalez Vargas said that the mordida (bribe) was a way of doing business over there. (Doc. 92) A. p. 192: and that it certainly isn't right over here and that he did not think anybody would personally approve of matters being made that way. but that the jury could consider all of Mr. Armes' conduct as well as Mr. Eaton's in arriving at the credibility to be given to it. He then added, "But it is not any basis for refusing to pay Mr. Armes any money if he's entitled to it. That would be no defense to this suit. And that's what I meant to bring to your attention about it." (Doc. 92) A. p. 192. The Court then continued. "But is not any defense as far as this suit is concerned. of Plaintiff recovering anything if he's entitled to any fees for services that he rendered." (Doc. 92) A. pp. 192-193.

All of these statements by the Court were excepted to by Petitioners. (Doc. 92) A. p. 200.

Gonzalez Vargas did not state that the use of bribes was the customary way of doing business in Mexico. On the contrary, on cross-examination by counsel for Respondent. the nearest the examination of this witness came to it was as to whether he was well versed in this type of dilemma or legal problems with sidelines that can sometimes lead to illegalities. And his answer was, "Well, I don't know about the illegalities." (Doc. 92) A. p. 141. At that point the Court said, "I don't think we can get into that. What he did, but that's —", at which point counsel for Respondent said he would strike the question. (Doc. 92) A. p. 141.

Respondent, in effect, admitted their illegality, when he said, "I wanted to do it legally, and this is why I wasn't agreeing to that." (Doc. 92) Tr. p. 295.

The vice in the Trial Court's actions was (1) stopping Petitioners' counsel from arguing the "bribery" facts in connection with the question of Respondent's credibility, and (2) the Trial Court's statements at two different times, that "there is no testimony that this action is illegal. To the contrary, your witness, Mr. Gonzalez Vargas said, "that's the way they do business in Mexico." This stopped Respondent's counsel from arguing these facts in connection with Respondent's credibility, and was an affirmative statement by the Court utterly destroying Respondent's position on the question, and the mere addition by the Court of the statement that the jury will remember the testimony and determine the credibility of the witnesses did not cure the irreparable injury to Petitioners' case already inflicted by the Court by these statements which he made. This points out the error of the Court of Appeals when, in passing on this point, it said in its opinion:

> "These comments were part of the Trial Judge's instructions to the jury concerning the importance of assessing the credibility of witnesses. Taken in context, the Trial Court's observations were nothing more than an attempt to inform the jury that they should consider all the circumstances in assessing the impact of an illegal act on Armes' credibility. We find no error in his comments."

It is submitted that the Trial Court effectively destroyed Respondents' position on this issue. He attributed to Gonzalez Vargas a statement that Gonzalez Vargas did not make (Doc. 92) A. p. 141, and he instructed the jury that bribing public officials is a way they do business in Mexico. There was no evidence to support this statement by the Court. In the absence of evidence, the Court will not take cognizance of the laws of another without pleading and proof, Rowan vs. C.I.R., 120 F.2d 515 (5th Cir. 1941); Medina vs. Hartman, 260 F.2d 569 at 570 (9th Cir.); Molina vs. Sovereign Camp W.O.W., 6 F.2d 385 at 397, 398. There is no evidentiary basis in the record in this case for said statements by the Trial Court, and he was one hundred eighty degrees wrong in his reference to the testimony of Gonzalez Vargas, and the Petitioners were irreparably injured by these erroneous statements and charges to the jury by the Court; and the approval thereof by the Court of Appeals as shown by the above quotation from the Appellate Court's opinion is not justified by the facts in the record in this case.

Moreover, the statement by the Trial Court that bribing public officials is the way they do business in Mexico is a gratuitous slap at the character of a sister Republic, which was completely unsupported, and which does it an injustice which the Courts of this country should not permit to stand, and which therefore should be corrected by this Honorable Court.

II.

Respondent and Petitioners Eaton and United Broadcasting Co., Inc. entered into a written contract on March 6, 1971, in which it was recited Respondent would perform certain services there set out, and that Respondent would be compensated in the following manner: Radio Station XEWG in Juarez, Mexico shall be sold at a price acceptable to both parties within thirty (30) days after the delivery of the documents specified in Paragraph 1. and Petitioners shall pay to Respondent upon the consummation of the sale of Radio Station XEWG, in accordance with the terms of this agreement, 20% of the net amount to be received by Petitioners upon such sale. Ex. I. A. pp. 253-256; (Doc. 92) A. p. 112. Respondent testified to promises by Petitioner Eaton made prior to March 6, 1971, to pay him $80,000.00, being 20% of the sale price of Radio Station XEWG in Juarez, Mexico, on the basis of XEWG having already been sold for $400,000.00. (Doc. 92) A. pp. 103, 105, 106, and the jury's verdict, on which the judgment was based, assessed Respondent's damages at $80,000.00, with the specific findings that Eaton agreed to pay Respondent $80,000.00 plus expenses, and that Eaton represented to Appellee said station had been sold for $400,000.00, and that Appellee would be paid $80,000.00 when Eaton was paid for the station. (Doc. 71) A. p. 58. This is contrary to the above quoted provision of the written contract, and varied an express term of the written agreement.

Moreover, it was admitted by Respondent that Station XEWG had not been sold, Respondent's Brief, p. 11. Thus, there were no proceeds of a sale from which the money in question was to be paid.

The judgment in favor of Respondent is unauthorized, as it is based upon alleged prior oral agreements which were contrary to the written agreement between the parties. That this is contrary to established law is shown by two prior decisions from the Fifth Circuit. Harville Rose Service vs. Kellogg Company, 448 F.2d 1346 (5th Cir.) and Mathews vs. Drew Chemical Corp., 475 F.2d 146 (5th Cir.).

It is clear the Court of Appeals' opinion on the parol evidence rule is erroneous. The opinion clearly shows that it approves the prior oral agreements as an adequate basis for the verdict and judgment, to the complete emasculation of the parol evidence rule, and to the exclusion of the written contract as a basis for determining the rights of the parties. The opinion goes so far as to state, "Despite the confusion surrounding the disposition of the radio station, there was ample evidence to support the jury's finding that the station was sold and that Eaton received the proceeds." This, in spite of the fact that Respondent, in his counterclaim, alleged Eaton represented said station had been sold for $400,000.00, and Respondent was to get 20%, or $80,000.00, but that this representation was false. App. p. 31. Respondent's Brief, p. 11, states the station had not been sold, and Respondent's counsel so admitted in oral argument before the Court of Appeals. It is therefore clearly outside the record in the case for the Court of Appeals to put its affirmance on the ground the station had been sold, and Eaton had been paid for it.

REASONS FOR GRANTING THE WRIT

The Court below has affirmed the actions of the Trial Court in stating to the jury, and in instructing the jury, that Respondent's bribing a District Judge and other officials in Mexico was not shown by the evidence to be illegal, and that one of the Petitioners' witness had said that's the way they do business in Mexico, and the Court in doing so not only cut off Petitioners' counsel from arguing these matters on the question of Respondent's credibility as a witness, but also reflected upon the manner in which judicial matters are conducted in the Republic of Mexico. This was an unwarranted statement impugning the integrity of the public judicial officials of our sister Republic. The Court of Appeals passed over the irreparable injury done to Petitioners' case with the statement that these comments were part of the Trial Judge's instructions to the jury concerning the importance of assessing the credibility of witnesses, and were nothing more than an act to inform the jury they should consider all the circumstances in assessing the impact of an illegal act on Armes' credibility; and the said Court did not mention the fact that these statements by the Trial Court were an unwarranted impugning of the conduct of judicial affairs in the Republic of Mexico.

This Writ should be granted so that justice may be done on behalf of Petitioners whose case was so unwarrantedly destroyed by the Trial Court's statement in support of Armes credibility, and further, in order that the unwarranted slap at public officials of our sister Republic may be corrected in the judicial records of this country.

This Writ should also be granted for the reason that the Court of Appeals has affirmed a judgment wherein a written contract covering the rights and obligations of the parties was denied effect, and instead, the judgment was based upon alleged prior oral agreements between the parties. The right of a citizen to rely on a written contract is fundamental, and rights based on written contracts generally are threatened when a party is permitted to substitute his testimony as to an oral agreement as the basis for the Court's judgment, in lieu of having the rights and obligations of the parties judged by the provisions of the written agreement.

This Petition for a Writ of Certiorari therefore should be granted so that this Honorable Court can correct these errors on the part of the Courts below.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth above. it is respectfully submitted that this Petition for a Writ of Certiorari should be granted.

APPENDIX A

UNITED BROADCASTING COMPANY, INC., U. B. C. Sales, Inc., and their officers and Richard Eaton, Plaintiffs-Appellants.

Jay J. ARMES,
Defendant-Appellee.

No. 73-3824.

United States Court of Appeals,
Fifth Circuit.

Jan. 20, 1975.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas.

Before GEWIN, GOLDBERG and AINSWORTH, Circuit Judges.

AINSWORTH, Circuit Judge:

In this Texas diversity case we must interpret a series of oral and written contracts for personal services undertaken and performed in the context of a most extraordinary set of facts. Plaintiff Richard Eaton and two corporations of which he is president appeal from a judgment for $80,000, plus court costs, entered on a jury verdict in favor of defendant and counterclaimant Jay Armes. We affirm.

I. Factual Background to the Dispute

A. The Relationship Between Eaton and Estella Vega Padilla

Richard Eaton is a Washington businessman who is president and sole stockholder of United Broadcasting Company and its wholly owned subsidiary, U.B.C. Sales, Inc. In 1964 Eaton met Francisco Nunez, who owned radio station XEWG in Juarez, Mexico. Eaton wanted to buy the station but learned that under Mexican law, American citizens cannot own property or government broadcast licenses in Mexico. Eaton was accompanied by Estella Vega Padilla, his close friend at that time and later his housekeeper. She is a Mexican citizen and suggested that Eaton register the title to the station and broadcast license in her name. Between the time of this purchase and 1970, Eaton loaned Estella Vega Padilla approximately $450,000 to operate XEWG and several other Mexican stations. This loan agreement, according to Eaton's statement in his deposition, was not reduced to writing until December of 1971.

At about the same time that radio station XEWG was purchased by Eaton and put in Estella Vega Padilla's name, Eaton was arranging the adoption of a child by his son and daughter-in-law. He urged the couple to adopt a child, in the hope that it would revive their failing marriage. On the advice of a Miami doctor, he arranged for the adoption of a child about to be born out of wedlock to a young woman who felt she could not keep the child. At the last minute, Eaton's son and daughter-in-law decided not to go through with the arrangement. The baby had already been delivered, and so Eaton assured his daughter-in-law that he would care for the child himself. He persuaded Estella

Vega Padilla to assume day-to-day responsibility for the child, which she did.

In March 1970, because of a dispute over the profits from the radio station, Estella Vega Padilla left Eaton and headed for Mexico with the child.

B. The Contracts Between Eaton and Jay Armes

Eaton then sought the services of defendant Armes, a private investigator in El Paso, Texas. On April 29, 1970, he and Armes concluded an agreement pursuant to which Armes was to recover the child for a fee of $1,500. Eaton had information at this time that the child was in Juarez, Mexico. Armes learned, however, that the child was in Veracruz. When Armes told Eaton of his discovery, the two entered into a second agreement, this one oral, pursuant to which Armes was to recover the child in Veracruz. Further, he was to recover for Eaton all the properties Eaton had entrusted to Estella Vega Padilla: radio station XEWG in Juarez, Mexico, radio station XESM in Mexico City, and a house in Chevy Chase, Maryland. Armes testified that Eaton told him that XEWG had been sold for $400,000, out of which Armes would be paid $80,000 as soon as the necessary papers were procured and executed.

For nearly a year thereafter, Armes worked on his assignment from Eaton. The child was returned by Armes to Eaton in October 1970. By March 1971, Armes had completed most of the arrangements for the return of Eaton's property. As a result of Armes' efforts, Estella Vega Padilla was extradited from Mexico City to Juarez. Armes initiated proceedings against her for criminal fraud. Faced with the serious threat of prosecution, Estella Vega Padilla sought to make amends. She executed a power of attorney authorizing a lawyer in Juarez, Mr. Vargas, to transfer the radio stations to another Mexican party. Armes also recovered from Estella Vega Padilla the deed to the Maryland house that Eaton had entrusted to her.

On March 6, 1971, Eaton and Armes concluded a third agreement, this one written, which recited that when Armes turned over the deed to the Maryland property and the papers necessary for the transfer of the radio stations, XEWG would be sold within thirty days and 20 per cent of the proceeds would be given to Armes in payment for his services. After delivering the documents sought by Eaton, Armes demanded his fee. A dispute developed over the agreements, and Armes filed suit in Juarez, intending to levy on the assets of the radio station (XEWG). Eaton filed suit in the United States District Court, Western District of Texas, and obtained an injunction against Armes' suit in Juarez. Armes counterclaimed for his fee. The jury returned a verdict in favor of Armes, and the court entered a judgment of $80,000 plus court costs, from which Eaton has appealed.

II. Plaintiff Eaton's Contentions on Appeal

A. The Meaning of the Agreements

The jury found, in answer to a special interrogatory, that Eaton agreed to pay Armes $80,000 plus expenses for his services. Eaton contends the jury's verdict is contrary to the express terms of the written contract of March 6, 1971, which, he asserts, is a reduction to writing of all the agreements between the parties. He argues, therefore, that any prior oral agreements are barred by the parole evidence rule and doctrine of merger. We have summarized the facts in some detail, but it is clear that there is a conflict in substantial evidence sufficient to create a jury question, see Boeing Company v. Shipman, 5 Cir., 1969, 411 F.2d 365, 374-375 (en banc), and that the jury resolved that conflict adversely to defendants.[1]

It is apparent from all the testimony that the earlier oral agreements concerned several matters not mentioned in the written contract of March 6, 1971, most conspicuously the recovery of the child, which proved to be far more difficult than either party anticipated when they negotiated the original contract on April 29, 1970. Armes also performed services for Eaton subsequent to and not covered by the written agreement of March 6, 1971. For example, Armes testified that after he had completed all his obligations under the written contract, Eaton sent him back to Juarez for a duplicate title to the property in Maryland, one deed for which Armes had already delivered. Whatever the written agreement may provide concerning Armes' fee for the services listed therein, Eaton's promise to pay Armes $80,000 for the entire job survives from the prior oral agreement.

Eaton also complains of the jury's answer to a special interrogatory that station XEWG was in fact sold for $400,000. In light of our conclusion that the jury was correct in finding that Eaton promised Armes $80,000 for his services, the amount for which the radio station was sold does not affect Armes' rights under the contract. Nor is Armes' recovery dependent on whether the station was actually sold.

1 Under the circumstances, the district judge was fully justified, and did not abuse his discretion, in denying Eaton's motion for a new trial. See, e. g., United States v. Bucon Construction Company, 5 Cir., 1970, 430 F.2d 420, 423; Powell v. McIntire, 5 Cir., 1969, 415 F.2d 333.

Although the sale of the radio station was mentioned in the oral agreement, Eaton's oral promise to pay $80,000 for Armes' services was not tied to any specific proceeds. The promise given by Eaton in the March 6, 1971 written agreement merely identified one source of payment on which Armes could depend for compensation for his work. The sale of the station was part of Eaton's obligations under that agreement, not a condition precedent to those obligations. If Eaton failed to sell the station he breached the agreement just as surely as if he had sold the station but refused to give Armes any of the proceeds.

Moreover, there is evidence in the record that a sale did take place. Armes testified that Eaton told him the station had been sold to a Mexican company called Escarga, represented by Jesus Hernandez Gutierrez. The record includes a sale contract reciting that Gutierrez is to pay $400,000 to Richard Eaton for radio station XEWG, and that U.B.C. Sales, Inc. is to hold a promissory note in that amount until full payment is received. The record also contains a statement executed by Gutierrez, as owner of XEWG, authorizing the payment of all monies due the radio station to U.B.C. Sales, Inc. Despite the confusion surrounding the disposition of the radio station, there was ample evidence to support the jury's finding that the station was sold and that Eaton received the proceeds.

B. Errors Alleged to Have Been Committed at Trial

Eaton also assigns as error the following actions by the trial court: (1) refusal to exclude expert testimony and other evidence concerning the value of the radio station; (2) instructions to the jury that adverse inferences could be drawn from the failure of Eaton and Estella Vega Padilla to appear and testify; (3) refusal to permit the reading of Eaton's pretrial deposition on the question whether he was too ill to appear: (4) instructions to the jury that the widespread occurrence of bribery and other misconduct in Mexico could be taken into account in considering the effect of Armes' misconduct on his credibility as a witness: (5) entry of an injunction by the district court against Eaton to restrain him from proceeding in a suit against Armes by Eaton for invasion of privacy in Washington, D. C. All of these contentions are without merit.

1. The expert testimony. In light of our conclusion that Armes' compensation was not dependent on the amount of proceeds from the sale of the radio station, whatever error may have been committed in allowing testimony on the value of the station was harmless.

2. Failure of Eaton and Padilla to appear. The trial judge instructed the jury that, if they found Estella Vega Padilla had knowledge of the facts in the case and was reasonably available to Eaton and less available to Armes, they could infer that her testimony would have been unfavorable to Eaton. This standard instruction was proper. C. McCormick, Law of Evidence § 249 at 534 (1954). The trial court obliquely suggested to the jury that the same inference could be drawn from Eaton's failure to appear, noting that the court had concluded there was no medical reason for Eaton's refusal to travel to El Paso. The instruction itself is a standard charge on credibility. See C. McCormick, supra, § 249; Wigmore on Evidence § 289 (1940). The trial judge's finding that Eaton was in fact able to appear is amply supported in the record.

3. The reading of Eaton's deposition. The trial court initially acceded to Eaton's request, supported only by a physician's unsworn statement, that he not be required to attend the proceedings in El Paso for health reasons. See Fed.R.Civ.P. 32(a)(3)(C). During the taking of the deposition, however, Armes' counsel elicited from Eaton the admission that he travelled frequently by airplane on business matters. Moreover, Eaton used the occasion of Armes' attendance at the deposition to serve him with the complaint in Eaton's Washington lawsuit for invasion of privacy. These developments cast serious doubts on the validity of Eaton's earlier claim of physical incapacity. Thus when Eaton's counsel attempted to blunt the effect of his client's failure to appear by reading to the jury the portion of Eaton's deposition concerning his health, the trial court properly limited the testimony. Considering the facts elicited in the deposition about Eaton's physical capacity and Eaton's numerous business trips between New York and Washington, the court was fully justified in its ruling and we perceive no reversible error.

4. The trial court's comments concerning bribery. During plaintiff counsel's closing argument and in the instructions to the jury, the trial judge expressed his belief that Armes' use of bribery and other questionable practices in connection with the return of Eaton's property should be viewed in light of the prevalence of such practices in Mexico. The trial court made it clear that the jury was not to take his comments as approval of Armes' actions. These comments were part of the trial judge's instructions to the jury concerning the importance of assessing the credibility of witnesses.[2] Taken in context, the trial court's

2 Eaton's counsel conceded at oral argument in this Court that he was not relying on alleged illegality of the contracts between Eaton and Armes. Inquiry into possibly illegal acts connected with these contracts is foreclosed by state law, which we are bound to follow in this diversity case. Under Texas law, if a contract is not observations were nothing more than an attempt to inform the jury that they should consider all the circumstances in assessing the impact of an illegal act on Armes' credibility.[3] We find no error in his comments. See Byrd v. Blue Ridge Rural Electric Cooperative, 356 U.S. 525, 540, 78 S.Ct. 893, 902, 2 L.Ed.2d 953 (1958).

5. The injunction against Eaton's suit in Washington, D. C. The trial court enjoined Eaton from further proceeding in his suit against Armes in Washington for invasion of privacy and other torts. His judgment was obviously correct. Fed.R.Civ.P. 13(a) in pertinent part states:

> A pleading shall state as a counterclaim any claim which at the time of serving the pleading the pleader has against any opposing party, if it arises out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the opposing party's claim . . . .

illegal on its face, its illegality must be raised as an affirmative defense. Kahn v. Harris, Upham & Co., Tex.Civ.App., 1952, 247 S.W.2d 139, 142, aff'd, 151 Tex. 655, 253 S.W.2d 647; City of Galveston v. O'Mara, Tex.Civ.App., 1941, 146 S.W.2d 416, 420, aff'd sub nom., City of Galveston v. Heffernan, 138 Tex. 16, 155 S.W.2d 912. Plainly this contract called for no illegal acts, either implicitly or by its terms, and illegality was not raised as an affirmative defense in the trial court.

3 The trial court's charge, in relevant part, was as follows:

> . . . I thought that Mr. Gonzalez Vargas said that this is the way, referring to the mordida [a Mexican idiom for bribery], that this is the way business is done over there.
> Well, of course, certainly [sic] isn't right over here, and we know that, and I don't think anybody would personally approve of matters being made that way. But listen to all the testimony.

Eaton's Washington suit alleges that, in connection with the collection of his fees, Armes made a number of threats to harm Eaton and the child, including a threat to kidnap the child and take her back to Mexico. Thus this claim clearly arises out of the same transaction as Armes' claim in the present suit and should have been pleaded as a counterclaim in the Texas federal court.

Affirmed.

Brief of Respondent in Response to Petition for a Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeal for Fifth Circuit

---

JAY J. ARMES, Respondent, prays that a Petition for a WRIT OF CERTIORARI to review judgments of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, entered in the above styled and numbered cause on January 20, 1975, be denied.

OPINION BELOW

The opinion delivered in the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit is reported at 506 F.2d 766 (5th. Cir., 1975)

The opinion was delivered on January 20, 1975. The Motion for Rehearing was denied on February 10, 1975.

JURISDICTION

Jurisdiction of the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas, El Paso Division was invoked pursuant to 28 U.S.C. Section 1332. Respondent does not question the jurisdiction as set forth in the Petition for a WRIT OF CERTIORARI.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE FIFTH CIRCUIT CORRECTLY HELD:

I.

DISTRICT COURT'S INSTRUCTIONS CONCERNING THE ASSESSMENT OF ARMES' CREDIBILITY, TAKEN IN CONTEXT, WERE NOTHING MORE THAN ATTEMPT TO INFORM THE JURY THAT THEY SHOULD CONSIDER ALL OF THE CIRCUMSTANCES.

II.

THE JUDGMENT FOR ARMES WAS CORRECTLY BASED UPON PRIOR AND SUBSEQUENT ORAL AGREEMENTS WHICH WERE NOT INCLUDED IN THE MARCH 6, 1971 WRITTEN CONTRACT.

III.

RECOVERY OF ORALLY AGREED FEE OF $80.-000.00 WAS NOT DEPENDENT UPON THE SALE OF RADIO STATION XEWG.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Respondent sets forth the salient facts of this case because of certain inaccuracies and misleading statements in the PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI.

Mr. Richard Eaton, Appellant, solicited the services of Mr. Jay J. Armes, Appellee, a Private Investigator in El Paso, Texas to locate and return Appellant's daughter, Alma Maude Eaton. On April 29, 1970, the parties concluded an oral agreement pursuant to which Mr. Armes was to recover the child who was believed to be in the City of Juarez, Mexico. Mr. Armes was paid the agreed fee of $1,500.00 and was given a Power of Attorney (Plaintiff's Exhibit "W"). After diligent search, Mr. Armes reported to Mr. Eaton that Appellant's daughter had been taken to the interior of Mexico by Estela Vega Padilla. Mr. Armes and Mr. Eaton then entered into a second oral agreement pursuant to which Mr. Armes was to recover the child from the interior of Mexico. Further, Mr. Eaton requested that Mr. Armes recover title for Mr. Eaton to all properties Mr. Eaton had entrusted to Estela Vega Padilla, to-wit: Radio Station, XEWG located in Juarez, Mexico, Radio Station XESM located in Mexico City, Mexico, and a house in Chevy Chase, Maryland. Mr. Armes was promised compensation for all such future work in the amount of $80.000.00, plus expenses.

For nearly one year thereafter Mr. Armes worked on his assignment, and Mr. Eaton paid the expenses therefor, and often repeated such promises. Mr. Armes returned the child to Mr. Eaton on October 20, 1970 (Plaintiff's Exhibit "X"). On March, 1971, Mr. Armes completed most of the arrangements for the return to Mr. Eaton's property. The parties then entered into a third agreement (Defendant's Exhibit "I") on March 6, 1971. This written agreement recited that when Mr. Armes turned over the deed to the Maryland property and the papers necessary for the transfer of the Radio Station, XEWG would be sold within thirty days and 20% of the proceeds would be given to Mr. Armes in payment for his services. Mr. Armes then proceeded to recover all the assets enumerated on the contract, as well as perform new and additional assignments such as run Radio Station XEWG for Mr. Eaton, negate the Mexican adoption of Alma Maude Eaton, Defend Rosa Maria Gonzalez Dominguez, have charges dropped against Estela Vega Padilla, and obtain the release of Estela Vega Padilla from jail. Appellee thereafter requested payment and was given many excuses and was placated, even though Appellant recognized the debt (Plaintiff's Exhibit "K"). Thereafter, Appellee filed a civil suit in Juarez, Mexico to recover his debt. Mr. Eaton filed suit in the United States District Court, Western District of Texas, and obtained an injunction against Mr. Armes for preceeding on his civil suit filed in Juarez, Mexico. Mr. Armes then filed a counter claim herein for his fee. The jury returned a verdict in favor of Mr. Armes and the Court entered judgment of $80.000.00 plus court costs, from which Mr. Eaton appealed to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. The United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit affirmed the judgment of the United States District Court, Western District of Texas and Mr. Eaton filed a Petition for a WRIT OF CERTIORARI.

REASONS WHY PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI SHOULD BE DENIED

Summary Of Argument

Appellants do not challenge the validity or interpretation of many Federal Statutes, or of any rule of law, or of any statutes, or the application thereof, nor do Appellants allege conflicting opinions among Circuit Courts of Appeal. Appellants request A WRIT OF CERTIORARI solely to review the findings of fact between private litigants which have been determined by the jury, by the United States District Court Judge, and by the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. Appellants do not allege that such findings are clearly erroneous but rather argue isolated interpretations and inflammatory incidents which are out of context with the entire case. Appellants disregard the applicable principals of review that the findings of fact determined by the jury, by the United States Court, and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit will be final unless attacked as being clearly erroneous and that all conflicts and reasonable inferences of which the evidence is fairly susceptible should be drawn in favor of the judgment rendered below.

I.

The Court Of Appeals For The Fifth Circuit Correctly Held That The District Court's Instructions Concerning The Assessment Of Armes' Credibility Taken In Context, Were Nothing More Than Attempt To Inform The Jury That They Should Consider All Circumstances.

It is the general rule of the law of conflicts that a party seeking to recover under foreign law has the burden to plead and prove such foreign law. However, there is an exception to the general rule when the system of jurisprudence of the foreign country is different from that of the forum. NUSSBAUM, THE PROBLEM OF PROVING FOREIGN LAW, 50 Yale L.J. 1018 (1941); CURRIE, ON THE REPLACEMENT OF THE LAW OF THE FORUM, 58 Cal. L. Rev. 964 (1958); EHRENZWEIG, CONFLICT OF LAWS (1962). This exception is applicable here as Texas is a common law State and Mexico is a Civil Law Country. MEXICAN CENTRAL RAILWAY CO. V. MARSHALL, 91 F. 933 (5th. Cir., 1899).

Further, neither party seeks here to recover under the foreign law. The Appellants are trying to show that the Mexican Law is similar to the law of the State of Texas and states that the District Court was in error in failing to presume similarity in the laws of the State of Texas and Country of Mexico because there were no pleadings or proof to show the legality of the practice of mordida in Mexico. However, jurisprudence of the State of Texas abounds with predecent which decrees a great dissimilarity between Texas Law and Mexican Law. EL PASO AND JUAREZ TRACTION CO. V. CARUTH, 255 S.W. 159 (Tex. Comm. App., 1923); CARTER V. TILLERY, 257 S.W. 2d. 465 (Tex. Civ. App. — Amarillo, 1953, Writ Ref'd, N.R.E.); MEXICAN NATIONAL RAILWAY COMPANY V. JACKSON, 89 Tex. 107, 33 S.W. 857 (1896); SLATER V. MEXICAN NATIONAL RAILWAY COMPANY, 194 U.S. 120, 24 S. Ct. 581, 48 L. Ed. 900 (1904). It would therefore seem unreasonable as a matter of law to enter a presumption as to the similarity of the laws of two states in this instance because of the multitude of evidence which in fact shows the state of the law and the common practice of mordida in the Country of Mexico. The Appellee testified that mordida is commonly given in Mexico to public officials to assist in a case and that was the way that things were done there. (Doc. 92, pp. 308-309). Appellants complain that there is no credible evidence or concludings to support this fact. However, Appellee is a member of the World Secret Service, Private Investigators of the World, Interpol, the Sheriff's Reserve of El Paso County, The Clinic of Private Investigators of Los Angeles, California. (Doc. 92, p. 136) and he is well versed in the legalities of that Country, as he continually operates in the Country of Mexico. Further, Appellant was aware of all the expenses and condoned each of them as each expenditure was being made (Doc. 92, pp. 180-186, P. 390). Appellants own witness testified that he had been involved in these kind of transactions in Mexico and Europe and insinuated that there was nothing of any consequences by these actions (Doc. 92, pp. 260-261). Further, this fact of life is common knowledge along the border of Mexico and is well known to the Courts, the jury, and to counsel, and would not have provided a defense to the Appellants herein, or even cast doubts on the credibility of any of the witnesses. Appellants argue that the import of the testimony of Mr. Gonzalez Vargas can not be interpeted as condoning the system of mordida. However, the jury and the trial court listened to such testimony and resolved it against the Appellant. If there is a conflict, it can only be resolved in favor of the judgment. MERRYMAN V. BOURNE. 76 U.S. 592, 9 Wall. 592, 19 L. Ed. 683 (1869).

The place of performance of the contract was Mexico. The assets to be recovered were in Mexico. Title to all of the assets were determined under Mexican Law. All expenditures were made in Mexico. The forms state would have little interest in applying its law to assess the conduct of private litigant conducting transaction outside the jurisdiction of Texas. SEGUROS TEPEYAC, S. A. COMPANIA MEXICANA V. BOSTROM, 347 F.2d 168 (5th Cir., 1965); LEFLAR CONFLICT OF LAWS (1959).

The District Court made certain comments to the jury during the trial concerning this issue which were examined extremely closely by the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. Most of the oral argument of counsel concerned this very issue. However, the contract called for no illegal act, either implicitly or by its terms and illegality was not raised as an affirmative defense in the trial court. KAHN V. HARRIS, UPHAM AND COMPANY, 247 S.W. 2d 139. 142 (Tex. Civ. App. — San Antonio, 1952), Aff'd, 151 Tex. 655, 253 S.W. 2d 647 (1952); CITY OF GALVESTON V. O'MARA, 146 S.W. 2d 416, 420 (Tex. Civ. App. — Galveston, 1940) Aff'd Sub. Nom., CITY

OF GALVESTON V. HEFFERNAN. 138 Tex. 16, 155 S.W. 2d 912 (1941). The Court of Appeals found that "trial judge expressed his beliefs that Armes' use of bribery and other questionable practices in return of Eaton's property should be viewed in light of the prevelances of such practices in Mexico. The trial court made it clear that the jury was not to take his comments as approval of Armes' action. These comments were part of the trial judge's instructions to the jury concerning the importance of assessing the credibility of witnesses. The Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit therefor found that "taken in context, the trial court's observation were nothing more than an attempt to inform the jury that they should consider all of the circumstances in assessing the impact of an illegal act on Armes' credibility. We find no error in his comments. SEABIRD V. BLUERIDGE RURAL ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE, 356 U.S. 525, 540, 78 S. Ct. 893, 902, 2 L. Ed. 2d 953 (1958)."

Appellants argues that the majority of the defense of this case centers upon the credibility of Mr. Armes. This is evident in view of the fact that the complete performance by Mr. Armes was readily admitted by the Appellant (Doc. 28, Paragraph VI; Doc. 92 pp. 445, pp. 455-459) and the credibility of Mr. Eaton was immediately suspect by his denial at trial of ownership of the assets located in Mexico (Doc. 92, pp. 402-405) when the contract set forth the express purpose of the contract ". . . to recover for the second party (Eaton) the real property and other assets held by Estella Vega and belonging to the second party . . ." (Eaton) (Plaintiff's Exhibit "I"). However, Appellant had his opportunity to present evidence attacking the credibility of

Mr. Armes and did so. However, the jury, and the United States District Court and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit foreclosed that factual issue against the Appellant. LAWRENCE V. McCALMONT, 43 U.S. 426, 2 How. 426, 11 L. Ed. 326 (1844); DENIS V. DENVER & R. G. W. R. CO. 375, U.S. 208, 84 S. Ct. 291, 11 L. Ed. 2d 256 (1963).

II.

The Court Of Appeals For The Fifth Circuit Correctly Held That The Judgment For Armes Was Correctly Based Upon Prior And Subsequent Oral Agreements Which Were Not Included In The March 6, 1971 Written Contract.

The Appellants contend that all prior oral agreements are barred by the parol evidence rule and the doctrine of merger. HARVILLE ROSE SERVICE V. KELLOGG COMPANY, 448 F.2d 1346 (5th Cir., 1971); and MATHEWS V. DREW CHEMICAL CORP., 475 F.2d 146 (5th Cir., 1973). However, there are no merger clauses in the written contract of March 6, 1971 and prior oral agreements between the parties are supported by separate considerations, concern matters unrelated to those enumerated in the written contract, and which Mr. Armes fully performed. At issue also are additional oral and written promises which were made after March 6, 1971 which also provided for payment to Mr. Armes in the amount of $80.000.00 for the entire job.

Appellee testified that prior to the execution of the written agreement, that the Appellant had agreed to the payment of a fee of $80,000.00 for all of the services which were performed from April 29, 1970 to that date. (Doc. 92, pp. 144-146). The written agreement thereafter covered only a fraction of the Appellee's services and which concerned only the one week period of the more than one year that the Appellee performed the additional services which concerned the adoption of Alma Maude Eaton (Doc. 92, pp. 146-147), had criminal complaints filed against Estella Vega, (Doc. 92, 00. 147-149), had located and returned Alma Maude Eaton to her father (Doc. 92, pp. 152-153), had been instrumental in supervising the running of Radio Station XEWG, (Doc. 92, pp. 173-175), and defended Rosa Maria Gonzalez from criminal complaints that had been filed by Estella Vega against her (Doc. 92, pp. 162-163). Even after the contract was entered into and executed, the Appellee had been requested to get Estella Vega out of jail, find her a hotel room and outfit her in suitable clothes (Doc. 92, pp. 473-474). Appellee had also been requested to deliver a Contract of Sale to Jesus Hernandez Gutierrez (Doc. 92, p. 162) and to obtain another deed from Estella Vega to the house in Maryland (Doc. 92, pp. 163-164) for which the promise of compensation in the amount of $80,000.00 was continuously reiterated.

This debt was further acknowledged in writing on April 27, 1971, by the promise of the Appellants to pay Appellee 20% of the net profits of the operations of Radio Station XEWG (Defendants Exhibit "K").

The jury evaluated the nature and extent of these services under both the oral and written agreements and correctly found an answer to a special in-terrogatory, that Mr. Eaton agreed to pay Mr. Armes $80,000.00 plus expenses for his services. Under the charge as it was given to the jury by the Court, the jury further placed a value on the services performed by the Appellee for the Appellant in the amount of $80,000.00. The jury verdict should therefore be conclusive as to the fact of the agreements between the parties. RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORP. V. BANKERS TRUST CO., 318 U.S. 163, 63 S. Ct. 515, 87 L. Ed. 680 (1943); SENKO V. LA CROSS DREDGING CORP., 352 U.S. 370, 77 S. Ct. 415, 1 L. Ed. 2d 404 (1957); LAVENDER V. KURN, 327 U.S. 645, 66 S. Ct. 740, 90 L. Ed. 916 (1946); MITCHELL V. The Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit reviewed and summarized all of the evidence in some detail and found subsequent and prior agreements not covered by the written agreement of March 6, 1971. The Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit held that "Whatever the written agreement may provide concerning Armes' fee for the services listed therein, Eaton's promise to pay Armes $80,000.00 for the entire job survives from the prior oral agreement." The Appellants do not complain that such facts are clearly erroneous and the concurrent findings of the jury, United States District Court, and the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit should not be disturbed. III.

The Court Of Appeals For The Fifth Circuit Correctly Held That Recovery Of Orally Agreed Fee Of $80,000.00 Was Not Dependent Upon The Sale Of Radio Station XEWG.

The Appellants complain that the findings of fact by the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit that "Despite the confusion surrounding the disposition of the Radio Station, there was ample evidence to support the jury finding that the Station was sold and that Eaton received the proceeds." is contrary to the evidence. Appellants state that a judgment for Mr. Armes is not correct if it is based upon such finding of fact.

Appellee would rather show that the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit correctly held that ". . . the jury was correct in finding that Eaton promised Armes $80,000.00 for his services, the amount for which Radio Station was sold does not affect Armes' right under the contract. Nor is Armes' recovery dependent upon whether the Station was actually sold. Although the sale of the Radio Station was mentioned in the oral agreement, Eaton's oral promise to pay $80,000.00 for Armes' services was not tied to any specific proceeds. The promise given by Eaton in the March 6, 1971 written agreement merely identified one source on which Armes could depend for compensation for his work. The sale of the Station was part of Eaton's obligations under that agreement, not a contingent precedent to those obligations. If Eaton failed to sell the Station he breached the agreement just as surely as if he had sold the Station but refused to give Armes any of the proceeds."

Appellee does not assign error to that finding of the jury or of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. The jury also found that the reasonable value of the services performed by Mr. Armes for Mr. Eaton was $80,000.00. There are therefor two separate factual and unchallenged basis upon which judgment can be rendered to the exclusion of the fact of the sale of Radio Station XEWG. Such facts should not now be reviewed. McLOUGHLIN V. RAPHAEL TUCK & SONS CO., 191 U.S. 267, 24 S. Ct. 105, 48 L. Ed. 178 (1903). EL PASO & S.W.R. CO. V. VIZARD, 211 U.S. 608, 29 S. Ct. 210, 53 L. Ed. 348 (1909).

The Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit did hold however, ". . . that there is evidence in the record that a sale did take place." The Court reviewed the evidence that "Armes testified that Eaton told him that the Station had been sold to a Mexican Company called Escarga represented by Jesus Hernandez Gutierrez. The record includes a Sale Contract reciting that Gutierrez is to pay $400,000.00 to Richard Eaton for Radio Station XEWG, and that U.B.C. Sales, Inc., is to hold promissory note in that amount until full payment is received. The record also contains a state-executed by Gutierrez, as owner of XEWG, authorizing the payment of all monies due the Radio Station to U.B.C.

Sales, Inc." The United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit then correctly held that "despite the confusion surrounding the disposition of the Radio Station, there was ample evidence to support the jury's finding that the Station was sold and Eaton received the proceeds."
